

Instructions for Accessing National Wild Ones Members Only Website

• Go to the upper right-hand corner of the Wild Ones national website home page www.wildones.org and click on the Members Login button.

• In the next window, go to the third line which says "member email not registered? Register password for member here."

• The window which appears next gives you the opportunity to register your e-mail address. You'll need to make up a password.

Mild Ones	Wild Password Registration
r.	Please use this form to register a password for yourself. Your member email is the email address we have in our membership database, in lower case letters. If your email address has changed, you will have an opportunity to change it online later.

- The Internet will search the Wild Ones database to see if your e-mail address you entered matches with what we have on file and if you're a current member of Wild Ones. If it's satisfied, it will allow you to go to the next step.
- At this step you will need to answer a couple of pretty simple questions.
- Once answered, you will be sent back to the login page from where you should be able to successfully access up the members' only pages. These pages include the Top 12 Journal articles along with a variety of other information.
